Friedrich Naumann Foundation for Freedom

The Friedrich Naumann Foundation for Freedom (FNF) is an international non-profit organization promoting the ideas of liberal democracy, respect for human rights, rule of law and economic freedom.

FNF works on some of the most important issues related to liberalism such as the opening of the Indian economy, working with the police to transform into a democratically accountable service, making cities more liberal for their citizens, harnessing the power of the revolutionary Right to Information Act, ensuring property rights as well as dealing with the challenges thrown up by climate change. More recently, the Foundation has supported programs dealing with the challenges and chances of digital transformation.

FNF pursues these goals, which are part and parcel of the great Indian democratic tradition embodied in the Constitution, in partnership with policymakers, business leaders, national and international NGOs, universities as well as journalists and think tanks.
